According to the report of B. W. Snow, statistician of the Chicago Board of Trade, the present drought is the most severe in the history of American agriculture, and there is little prospect for general relief in the stricken area. He regards the continued dry weather as almost attaining the proportions of a national disaster.

THROUGH COLORADO.—The Denver & Rio Grande Railroad, with its numerous branches penetrating the Rockies, has two distinct and separate lines across the mountainous country, reaching via the "Scenic Line" between Grand Junction and Ogdén, and via the "Direct Line" between Grand Junction and Ogdén, either via its main line through Leadville and Glenwood Springs, or via the line over Marshall Pass and through the Black Canon. Tourists to and from Salt Lake City, Ogdén or San Francisco will find it to their advantage to take the scenic road in both directions, via "The Scenic Line of the World," thus being able to use one of the above routes going and the other returning. Write to S. K. Hooper, G. P. & T. A., Denver, Colo., for illustrated pamphlets. 31jy-1f

Bridge Whist.
The Passenger Department of the U. H. & D. Ry. has just issued a beautiful list of rules on "Bridge Whist," which will be mailed on request. Each cent stamp. Address "Bridge Whist Advertising Department," C. H. & D. Ry., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Question Answered.

Yes August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mothers and grandmothers never thought of using anything else for Indigestion or Biliousness. Doctors were scarce, and they seldom heard of Appendicitis, Nervous Prostration, Heart failure, etc. They used August Flower to clean out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull with headache and other aches. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to make you satisfied that there is nothing serious the matter with you. Get Green's Prize Almanac.—W. T. Brooks.

VACATION.—For your summer outing allow us to suggest Colorado, famous for its cool and invigorating climate, magnificent mountain scenery and picturesque summer resorts, which are located along the line of the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad, "The Scenic Line of the World." Very low excursion rates and "Circle" tour tickets are on sale during summer months, via this line, to all the principal points of interest. The Denver & Rio Grande with its numerous branches penetrating the great State of Colorado, has 37 different "Circle" tours through the Rocky Mountains, one of which in particular is the famous 1,000 mile tour for $25, which comprises more noted scenery than any similar trip in the world, passing the following points of interest: La Veta Pass, Canon Pass, Toltec Gorge, Indian Reservation, Durango, Mancos Canon, Rio, Lizard Head Pass or Las Animas Canon, Silverton, Gorge, Gunnison Canon, Black Canon of the Gunnison, Marshall Pass and the Royal Gorge. This trip can be comfortably made in five days, but at least ten days ought to be devoted to it, so as to use leisurely inspect the principal scenery. Very low rates are also on sale to Salt Lake City, Utah. If you contemplate a trip through Colorado or Utah, let us send you some beautifully illustrated booklets, free. S. K. Hooper, G. P. & T. A., Denver, Colo. 31jy-1f

HERO OF THE HOUR.

Santos-Dumont's Success in Aerial Navigation Brings Him Many Offers. The New York Herald's European edition publishes the following from its Paris correspondent:

The hero of the hour is certainly M. Santos-Dumont. Like Byron, he awoke one morning to find himself famous. His recent successful experiments in aerial navigation have carried his name to the remotest corners of the world.

Nor does the interest in his achievement show signs of dying away, for a heated controversy has sprung up in the press over its importance. Any man less sincerely modest might easily have had his head turned by this universal fame. It appears that letters and congratulations have literally flowed in upon him, with others containing offers of a tempting if somewhat eccentric character, from many individuals who see a possibility of kudos and renown in the exploitation of the young Brazilian aeronaut and his steerable balloon.

Among these propositions, indeed, are two from proprietors of the most important of the new journals in London and New York, both of whom offer big drafts upon their bank accounts to induce M. Santos-Dumont to conduct his future experiments under their auspices. Being a man of means, with only one desire—namely, to advance the science to which he has devoted his best energies, his talents and his fortune—there is small chance that the young aeronaut will accept even this dazzling proposal, much less the others.

Your French sporting contemporaries, the Auto-Yelo, suggested his name the other day for the cross of the Legion of Honor, but in a letter that does him credit M. Santos-Dumont declines any long term for that distinction, a conclusive proof that he is not French. He remarks in his letter, "The honor for me is to have the sympathy and encouragement of friends such as you who contribute by the diffusion of the aerial idea throughout the world to the advancement of the greatest and most completely French of all the sciences."

The writer of such a letter is not likely to yield to the blandishments of any golden tongued Barnum.

SLOANE TO LEAVE THE TURF.

Famous Jockey Will Devote Himself Entirely to Auto Racing. J. Todhunter Sloane has cottoned to a new fad, and this time it is something in which himself will not figure, says the New York Journal. The crack American jockey has turned his attention to automobile racing, and the novelty of the sport has so allured his fancy that he has decided to devote his entire time in future to auto racing. At least this is the report that arrived recently from Paris, where Tod is at present sojourning.

Sloane will arrive in New York about the 10th of August and as mentors in his new venture will bring along with him Charon, the famous French chauffeur, and Fournier, winner of the great auto race from Paris to Berlin.

This trio of sporting celebrities will after their arrival go direct to Buffalo and take part in all the automobile exhibitions offered by the Pan-American exposition. It appears that the former pilot of equine speed and the two Frenchmen have become fast friends.

They have been playing the races to their hearts' content at Chantilly and are reported to have won a huge pile. Naturally they expect the same sort of a coup at Buffalo.

If Charon and Fournier exhibit any of their French form on this side of the water, they should experience no trouble in smashing all before them. Fournier is regarded as the world's greatest autist, and Charon is considered almost as good.

A CLASS IN PALESTINE.

President Harper's Plan For Chicago Theological Students. President Harper of the University of Chicago has just announced that he will send a branch of the Divinity school to work in Palestine during the winter of 1902, says the New York Post. Professor Shailer Matthews of the Theological school has been appointed by the president to take charge of this work. He has already begun organizing the class, which will be limited to 20 members and will sail from New York about the middle of September. In Palestine courses will be given by Dr. Matthews in historical geography and the life of Jesus. Special attention will be given to illustrative interpretation of the Bible.

The class will visit Cairo, Smyrna, Ephesus, Athens, Rome and Naples. For four weeks the students will make their headquarters in Jerusalem. Two weeks will be devoted to a camping trip in Samaria, Galilee and Decapolis, and some time will be spent in Damascus.

To Form a Model Industrial Town. The managers of 12 of the leading industrial plants at Kenosha, Wis., have formed a co-operative association for the purpose of getting laborers and of making the city a model manufacturing town, says the New York Times.

The plan of the manufacturers is to purchase a large tract of land, on which will be built homes for 1,000 laborers. These homes will be rented or else sold to the men at the cost of building. They will be located near the factory district. A large boarding house will also be erected, at which it will be possible to secure board and rooms at low rates.

HE COWED THE LION.

THE DARING BELTED ALL THE FIGHT OUT OF MONARCH.

Laughable Manner in Which the Big and Vicious Animal Was Returned to the Showman After a Railroad Smash Up.

"It's queer how animals will act in a railroad wreck," said the boss canvasman. "Now there was th' Sabrelee wreck. Six cars was in th' ditch an' half o' th' show's duns was under 'em. There was one cage o' monkeys mashed flat that we knowed of, an' a lot o' th' other animals had took t' th' woods, little animals, zebras an' wolves an' deer an' such like. Nothin' t' do any harm except th' big lion, Monarch. His den was bottom up in th' little puddle o' ditch water, with a hole stove in it big enough t' let out a cow, an' Monarch himself was gone with the little animals."

"Well, it was all off with makin' th' stand that day, so we put up th' runs, and th' cookhouse, and down th' road, had breakfast an' started in t' dig th' stuff out o' th' ditch. Th' railroad company's wreckin crew come along t' help us, an' we'd got nearly well under way when a tall, black buck darky come out o' th' woods an' stood round rubberin'.

"Nobody paid any attention t' him fer awhile, but by'n'by Mack, th' chandler man, spoke t' him, kind o' kidded him about belted him some, or some such stuff. It was as if Mack an' he was a rascal black buck. Didn't have anything t' say back—didn't say anything at all, in fact, fer awhile. Jeff shuffled round in his cowhide boots from one foot t' th' other an' grinned back at him, sayin' 'when I see you, you didn't roast him hard he kind o' took courage."

"Did any o' you gemmen lose a giraffe?" he says.

"Giraffe? Mack says. 'No; we never saw no such thing with this trick. Why?"

"Well, boss, Ah done foun' something up in mah 'ato patch this mawnin', an' Ah 'lowed as maybe hit 'longed t' you."

"Got interested. 'Wot does it look like?"

"Lawdy, boss, hit's mos' monstrous. Nevah did see no such ole thing befoh, sah. Big cat vahnmit, with yaller eyes, an' hit done come an' snailin an' a-spittin at me, an' he was as big as a horse."

"Where is it?" says Mack.

"Oh, Ah cawt hit all rightly. Done put a rope round his neck an' tied hit t' mah cabin."

"Go an' git it an' fetch it down here," says Mack. Then the wreckin crew got a tackle rope another den, an' we forgot all about th' darky.

"Maybe it was 20 minutes, an' maybe it was half an hour when we heard a noise over th' road amongst th' trees an' such like, kinder like a nigger drivin' a mule or like somethin' bel driven. It come nearer an' louder an' louder an' nearer. Everybody stopped work an' listened, an' th' ole man himself come out o' his car with his napkin hanging from his neck.

"What is that?" he pines up in his snappy way. "Who is that out there? Go an' see what that racket is, some o' you boys. Hurry up, now."

"Nobody paid any attention t' him, an' th' noise got nearer an' nearer. In a couple o' minutes a cloud o' dust sailed out from behind th' trees. When it got within a hundred yards o' th' track, it cleared up a bit, an' there was that big, black, sniggerin' with a rope in one mist an' a piece o' fence rail in th' other. On th' other end o' th' rope was Monarch.

"Of all th' mean, sneakin, underhand cat animals that ever traveled with a circus, Monarch was th' worst. An' a powerful fighter when he had any sort o' show. Sometimes we'd put our hands on th' canvas cover o' his cage when he had t' run over th' train, an' there never was a time, day or night, that he wouldn't come out an' try t' maul me t' his chuck o' fence an' talkin mule t' k' him wuss than anything you ever saw in th' south."

"On a long haul, you yaller eyed devil," he was sayin' 'Ah done snail me spit at me, now. Ah'm on 'long th' way, you big sassy vahnmit,' an' with th' he'd lam him with his piece o' fence an' let drive with his cowhide boots.

"An' you kin bet your life Monarch was a-comin'. I never saw a critter so cowed as he was. Why, when that nigger brought him right in amongst us there was nobody that took t' trouble t' open up a gangway, an' I recollect a young one could 'a' took him by th' scruff o' th' neck an' turned him over on his back. He was just a great, overgrown pet tomcat, with all th' fight an' meanness snailloped out o' him."

"We'd ranked his den up on t' road butted against a wagon. Th' door was open, an' when Monarch saw his happy little home waitin' there for him he 'sailed th' rope out o' th' darky's hand an' bolted inside it. He couldn't get far enough inside, either—went away up in th' fur corner an' tried t' hide. Sabrelee shut th' door an' spoke to him, but Monarch was th' worst whipped animal you ever saw."—New York Sun.

Suppressing Cruelty. Many a man who would be ashamed to strike a brute beast with a bloodstone has no shame in making a bloodstone of his tongue to strike human beings in the tender places of their being—their eyes, mouths and their self-esteem. Cruelty to the weak and defenseless forms we have in good measure suppressed, but the refined cruelty of the bitter word, the unloving censure, the abusive harangue, is not yet extinct. Let us be careful of men's lauer as we are of their outer—B. H. H.

Painting Black Eyes. "The painting of blackened eyes, of which you hear little nowadays," said a man of experience, "is so well established a business now that it does not even need advertising. A sign which I just passed around memories of an earlier day within me. It was merely the name of a man who does this kind of painting, with the brief announcement, 'Black Eyes Painted.'"

"Some years ago such a simple statement was not enough to catch the eye of a man who was not one in that business to live. The artist was calling this sign declared is the same man who some years back used to have a place on the avenue farther west, and in front of that office he used to have an expensive and gorgeous sign which told his accomplishments in the phraseology which the only Tony Hamilton after perfected in describing the charms of the best that Barnum offered."—New York Sun.

There are no many poor grammarians that we wonder grammar is not more, unpopular.—Aitchison Globe.
